Accessing Specific Journals from Off Campus

The Ort Library offers access to many journals electronically. There is a simple way to see if the library offers full-text access to a specific journal through our library.

To access the A-Z list of journals, go to the library’s home page (http://www.frostburg.edu/lewis-ort-library/) and select the tab Journals A-Z.

Click on the link Search for Online Journals. If you are off-campus, you will need to select Frostburg State University.

To access the list of journals, you will then be prompted to enter your library ID (starts with 2206 – found on your FSU ID) and your last name.

Once you have entered your information, the following screen will come up. Here you can enter the name of the journal you are looking for to see if it is available electronically.

In the following example, I am looking for the Journal of the American Medical Association. I enter this information into the search box and select Find Journal.

I now have a list of journals that are close to the title of the journal I am looking for. The first on the list is the one I am looking for. It tells me that the title now is JAMA: the Journal of the American Medical Association.
Click on the title JAMA: the Journal of the American Medical Association.

We now see the following screen.

This screen tells us that we have access to volume 279, issue 1 from 1998 to the present. Click on that link and a new screen will open up with the journal so you can search.

Other examples:
The Journal of Business is available in several different journals but only until 2006.

The Journal of Business and Behavior Sciences is available in Business Source Complete but only from 2013 to the present.

The Journal of Business and Economic Management is available as an open access journal in DOAJ but only from 2013 to the present.

The Journal of Business and Psychology is available from 1986 to the present, but the most recent year is embargoed and not available in the databases. You would need to order any articles from within the last year via ILL.
